RESERVE TIMBER SALES.

Working Plan Completed to Meet Demand for Ties in Wyoming.

The demand for lodgepole pine ties by the western railroads, which prefer them to any other because of the ease with which they take preservatives has greatly increased the market value of the Rocky Mountain forests in northern California, Wyoming, eastern Idaho and southern Montana, where lodgepole pine is the predominant tree. These forests are largely without existing or proposed national forest reserves, and are consequently under government control, so that the forest service has felt the need of preparing plans to permit the sale of such mature timber in them as may be safely spared. During the past year a working plan was completed for about 46,000 acres in the Wyoming division of the Medicine Bow reserve.

It was found in the first place that the protective value of the forest as a cover for the watersheds is so great that any utilization of the timber crop must be subordinated to it. Throughout the region the control of stream flow by the forest cover is the prime consideration.

The mining industry, which is of high importance, will not be hampered by the disposal of reserve timber, since all the mining claims located in or near the tract include timber sufficient for the needs of the owners. The present moderate grazing of cattle is carried on without risk to reproduction of the forest.

The Medicine Bow forest reserve contains the largest continuous body of lodgepole pine to be found in the Rocky Mountains. The timber on the tract for which the plan was made is accessible; the cutting has been carried on in the reserve for some years; and it was definitely known that all the timber which could safely be removed would find a ready sale. Measurements in the woods and careful studies of the rate of past growth and of the forest's power of "self renewal" furnished the data from which the government foresters calculated what the forest can be expected to yield and what per cent can be cut safely now. It was found that 165,000,000 feet B. M. of lodgepole pine could be taken out and yet leave a large percentage for future crops. Special studies were made of the injury to which the forest is liable from insect and fungus, from windfall and fire. Local market conditions and the methods and cost of lumbering were investigated to see whether improvements and economies might not be instituted, as well as to fix upon a fair stumpage price.

The completed plans provide for better protection of the forest from fire, including effective measures for compact piling of debris and brush in openings ready for burning; stipulates that all timber to be removed shall be marked in advance by the forest officers, who will be furnished with a full set of instruction to govern all steps in the logging operations; and requires that all merchantable parts of the trees be used.

Similar working plans will be prepared for available bodies of timber on other reserves, making possible the utilization of these vast forests under a system of scientific management which will perpetuate and improve the stand and, above all, safeguard the forest cover on watersheds.

A GOLD SHAKE

One day old polar bear had just finished a dinner of frozen fish and walrus hide boots. The boots having been left him by an arctic explorer whom he had eaten at a previous meal, and was taking a quiet promenade on the ice floe when he can across a would be hunter, gold prospector, pole discoverer and what not, carrying a double barreled gun.

Curious to see this strange personage, Mr. Bear drew near. "What are you doing there, if I may be so bold?" he asked.

"Oh, I'm looking for bear," replied the hunter, putting in some more shot.

"I hope you will forbear," said Mr. Polar, rising upon his hind legs and opening his mouth pleadingly. "I find it inconvenient to carry much lead about my person—so heavy, don't you know. But, say, why did you think of shooting in my direction?"

"Well, you see," said the hunter sadly, "I was brought up on a certain breakfast food, and every morning as a boy a box of this same stood before my plate. I had to eat it or starve. It had a big bear on the outside, and I made up my mind as a boy to kill any bear that came my way, they remind me so of the breakfast food."

"Well," said Mr. Bear, "I guess if that's the case you ought to have satisfaction. You look half starved, and if it will do you good I'm ready to be a victim. But let me tell you how to make your shot scatter."

"How?" asked the hunter interestedly.

"Oh, put in one shot at a time," said Mr. Bear.

"Never thought of it," said the hunter and emptied all the contents of his gun barrels in the snow.

Mr. Polar saw his chance and was off. "Goodbye," he yelled. "You need more breakfast food."—Atlanta Constitution.

Charges of polygamous teachings and attempted polygamy were Monday added to the long list of accusations laid down against John Alexander Dowie, the general overseer in Zion, Elijah III and the first apostle.

Two women were mentioned in Zion City to whom Zion is alleged to have made overtures of polygamous marriage. Both offers were scornfully refused. The first offer was said to have been made to the daughter of Mrs. Emily Ware, and was brought to the public attention in Zion City some time ago, when Mrs. Ware said that Mrs. Dowie had accused her of permitting "Dr." Dowie to make overtures of an unlawful marriage to Miss Ware. Dowie publicly read Mrs. Ware out of the church, saying that she circulated scandal by repeating the "delicious talk of a fever-stricken woman."

Miss Ruth Hofer, a Swiss heiress who visited Zion City over a year ago, is also said to have attracted Dowie's attention and to have refused a similar offer from him before she returned to Europe. It was reported in Zion City today that Dowie had induced her to join the Mexican colony.

The erstwhile high priest and despot of Zion was stripped of both power and property today. Then his former followers turned on the aged "prophet of God," and, in a telegram as vitriolic as any Dowie ever penned in the days of his prime, denounced him for his "polygamous teachings," his "extravagance," "hypocrisy" and "misuse of investments." The decrepit old man in Mexico was warned that he must "explain these charges satisfactorily" and "retire quietly."

That Dowie will see the great organization he founded on his faith-healing plans torn from him without a struggle is not believed in Zion City and the leaders there are awaiting his next move with interest. It is believed that if his health permits, he will start at once for Zion City and try by his personal magnetism to win back the followers who have turned from him at the call of the younger leader, Wilbur Glenn Voliva.

Today brought far reaching and sensational developments in Zion City, where yesterday the first move was made to throw off the yoke of Dowie. Early in the day title in all the Z. N.

They Stand Alone.

Standing out in bold relief, all alone, and as a conspicuous example of open, frank and honest dealing with the sick and afflicted, are Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, over-worked, debilitated, nervous, "run-down," pain-racked women, and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous remedy for weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness, all catarrhal affections whether of the stomach, bowels, kidneys, bladder, nasal passages, throat, bronchitis, or other mucous passages, also as an effective remedy for all diseases arising from thin, watery or impure blood, as scrofulous and skin affections.

Each bottle of the above medicines bears upon its wrapper a badge of honesty in the full list of ingredients composing it—printed in plain English. This frank and open publicity places these medicines in a class all by themselves, and is the best guaranty of their merits. They cannot be classed as patent medicine for they are neither.

Dr. Pierce feels that he can afford to take the afflicted into his full confidence and lay all the ingredients of his medicines freely before them because these ingredients are such as are endorsed and most strongly praised by scores of the most eminent medical writers as cures for the diseases for which these medicines are recommended. Therefore, the afflicted do not have to rely alone upon Dr. Pierce's recommendation as to the curative value of his medicines for certain easily recognized diseases.

A glance at the printed formula on each bottle will show that no alcohol and no harmful or habit-forming drugs enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines, they being wholly compounded of glyceric extracts of the roots of native American forest plants. These are best and safest for the cure of most lingering, chronic diseases. Dr. E. V. Pierce can be consulted freely, by addressing him at Buffalo, N. Y., and all communications are regarded as absolutely confidential.

It is as easy to be well as ill—and much more comfortable. Constipation is the cause of many forms of illness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets sure constipation. They are tiny sugar-coated granules. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic. All dealers in medicines sell them.

City property was transferred by warranty deed from Dowie to Deacon Alexander Granger. The latter also was given a bill of sale for all personal property of the "prophet," including even his household furniture. This move was accomplished through a power of attorney held by Deputy Overseer Voliva, Mrs. Dowie and her son, Gladstone Dowie, joining in the action. Both instruments were filed for record in Waukegan, the county seat of Lake County, in which Zion City is located. Having thus placed themselves in a position where they could brave the wrath of the "prophet," Overseer Voliva and his advisers sent a scorching telegram to the deposed leader.

"What are the polygamous teachings referred to in the telegram?" Overseer Voliva was asked.

"I shall issue a statement on that later."

Another overseer said that those teachings were secret and that those who had heard of them were greatly wrought up over the discovery.

The Good of Medicine.

People insisting that medicine does no good, have one stubborn fact to contend with, that is, the people who do believe are greatly in the majority. We have been so fortunate during the past 20 years as to convince thousands of sufferers with weak, watery blood, who had all the symptoms of a general breaking down of the system that one medicine, at least, does good. Nervous and unsteady people, weak, fleshless people, pimply, pale or sallow people, can have strong, steady nerves and solid healthy flesh by the use of Dr. Gunn's Blood and Nerve Tonic. A tablet to take at meal time, it turns the food you eat into rich, red blood, making solid flesh at the rate of 1 to 3 lbs. per week. Sold by all druggists for 75c per box, or 3 boxes for $2. This medicine saves doctor bills and insures health, giving the very best treatment possible.

A Dead Loss.

"See here, Aunt Dinah, I sent two brand new shirts of my husband's to the wash last week, and you have brought only one back. What have you done with the other?"

"Yes, Miss Lulu, ma'am, I was coming 'round to the quest'n of dat dar shu't. You know dat I ain't a pusion dat pretends to one thing and pretends to another, so I've guine to tell de truf 'bout dat shu't. It was disaway. SNAKE SANDWICH IS BARE DISH

Sweeter Than Spring Chicken and More Tender.

"Snakes are all right as food but very unsatisfactory as pets for the reason that they have no psychological nature," said a scientist now connected with Harvard university.

During a six years' residence in the west he made a close study of snakes and their ways. Having them in his study unconfined and about his premises in numbers, he became familiar with them.

The wisdom of the serpent he pronounces a myth, though he admits that snakes have much cunning, are wily to a degree and perfectly understand their powers and limitations. For example, a rattlesnake does not retreat in haste when disturbed. Realizing that its bite ends the game, it is invariably diliberate, but if left to itself in its own good time it makes off.

Other venomous snakes also proceed slowly, understanding, as does the rattler, that they are equal to most emergencies. Contrary to the common notion, snakes are not hostile to man. The most venomous and powerful will run from man if possible. It is only in self defense that any poisonous snake strikes.

That a rattlesnake rattles to give warning of its presence is a popular fallacy. It really does nothing of the kind. The tails of all snake quiver when they are excited, and therefore the rattler is heard when disturbed. Why it has rattles on its tail no one has been able to find out.

Snakes Always Solish.

It would be, according to this student of snakes, quite absurd to conclude that the handsome, independent husky rattlesnake is instinctively or otherwise considerate of others in giving warning of its presence. As are all snakes, it is simply negative in its attitude towards others, save when the instinct of self preservation is aroused, when it becomes positive in self-defense.

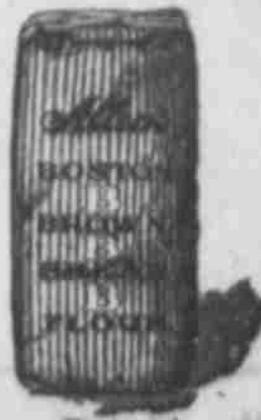

The chief difference between the ways of a poisonous snake and of one whose bite is no more than the sting of a mosquito is in the deliberate withdrawal of the one and the hasty retreat of the other in case of danger. The large majority of snakes are quite harmless and slip away with all speed at the approach of either a human being or an animal, knowing that the ability to conceal themselves is their only means of preservation.

While not crediting snakes with wisdom, it is said that in many ways they are the reverse of stupid. They are very curious and when they can do so without danger to themselves they examine an unfamiliar object with keen and repeated attention.

It is related by this scientist that in attempting to capture a water snake he put his foot on it in the soft ooze at the creek side, but failed to hold it. To see what the snake would do, he stood perfectly still, and in a few moments it came back and, swimming slowly round and round his foot examined it most carefully, not, as might be supposed, by looking at it, but by touching it at every point with its tongue, not once, but again and again.
